

Sourcing the Soul for Vocational Transformation

10-week Soul of Leadership Program

February 22, 2016 – May 2, 2016

A ten-week program led by Rev. Susie Allen and Rev. Susan Vincent Cox

“We are participants in a vast communion of being, and if we open ourselves to its guidance, we can learn anew how to live in this great and gracious community of truth.”

—from Let Your Life Speak, by Parker Palmer

This program is designed for leaders from a variety of organizational backgrounds: from CEOs to administrators, to those creating new programs or projects, to those who are seeking renewed vocation, or to those interested in more broadly developing their leadership skills and abilities. Within a contemplative, small community format, participants will gain inner renewal, clarity, and practical tools for their leadership as they experience some of the learning and exercises for transformation that are offered in the 18-month Soul of Leadership Program.

In this 10-week program,* participants will:

1. Consider personal leadership experiences in light of the readings.
2. Develop practices for sustaining the soul in leadership.
3. Reflect on spiritual awareness in relation to their leadership situations.
4. Remember times they led with soul and learn to do so more consistently.
5. Learn to engage transforming practices in difficult leadership challenges.
6. Build and nurture a community of encouragement, support and reflection.

“These leaders lead from quiet internal strength and integrity. Because the leadership challenges they face are some of the toughest around, they need the strongest, most resilient kind of leadership possible, and all of them have found what they need in the practice of spiritually grounded leadership.”
